If you scored between 30 and 34, you may have found the perfect partner. A score in this range indicated that you and your friend are comfortable with one another and can work together.

If you scored between 25 and 29, your friend is potentially a good partner, but there are a few areas of concern. Try asking the partner to take the quiz and predict how you answered the questions. This may help create positive discussions.

If you scored between 17 and 24, there are potential areas of conflict, and a program partnership with this person could encounter stormy going. You need to identify another person to rely on as your partner during this time.
